

COMMUNICATION for CONNECTION

Based on the internationally successful principles of

Nonviolent Communication (NVC)

As developed by Dr. Marshall B. Rosenberg

Every parent has times that are challenging with their children. We all want to nurture our relationships with our children. We all want to model compassionate and effective communication that empowers and enriches their lives. We want our children to experience us seeing them beautiful even when their behavior is not. NVC parenting is a 'how to' process that really works!

NVC has been my personal practice since 2006 & teaching since 2010. I have background study in early childhood development. As a parent I have a personal passion in being the model I want to be for my children and empowering others through NVC as I continue to be empowered.
